

Topic: Bullying

Key Question:

At what point does the teacher become the bully?

This scenario was contributed by Brandi Kelly.

Scenario:

A student, who is seen as annoying by most students and teachers, is being made fun of by a group of students. The teacher doesn't stop the insults, however, begins throwing in his own insults about the student. The student begins crying which only leads to more insults. To remove himself from the situation, he walks out of the classroom, which results in a write-up from the teacher and one day of ISS.

Discussion questions:

1. How can administration monitor for situations like this?
2. How could the student have handled it?
3. Who is responsible?
